SOME WHEAT, THIS

Walter McClosky, who never fails to make a wheat crop when he works at it, brought to the Texan office two "bunches" of stray wheat heads that, aside from being the finest specimens we have seen, seem to break the record in number of straws from a single stool, one counting 124, and the other 200. The wheat was pulled up before it had matured well, but the heads are the longest and fullest we have seen. Mr. McClosky has just harvested 200 acres.—Dalhart Texan.

HOME LOOKS BEST

W. J. Stalder and family returned home after an extended visit over eleven states, visiting southwest Missouri, Kansas, Denver and Salt Lake City, spending ten days in Yellowstone National Park. The family gained in flesh and color. Stalder says: "Outdoors for me." They say bears came to their camp and stole their grub in the park. Ugh! Anyway we are glad they are back home safe and sound. No other place looks so good to them as Union County.—Grenville News.
